Leader Outlines Big Road Building Program

ISRAEL WITHDRAWAL THREATENED

Wants to Keep Six-cent Tax On Gasoline

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today outlined a $720,000,000 road building program for Pennsylvania in the next two years and urged retention of the six-cent a gallon gasoline tax to finance it.

In an address prepared for delivery to a joint session of the Legislature at 2 p.m. the governor said the state would foot $515,000,000 of the bill while the remaining $205,000,000 would be subsidized by the federal government. Federal contributions for the interstate highway system alone over the next two years would amount to $143,000,000 with the state putting up only 10 per cent of the $157,000,000 total.

The special fund needs, combined with the $1.6-billion General Fund budget submitted Feb. 5, brought the governor's overall budget needs above the $2-billion mark for the first time in Commonwealth history.

Leader asked that the Legislature make the six-cent gasoline tax permanent which would mean the Republican lawmakers would have to forego their plan to remove the one cent from the tax which was added on an emergency basis to pay for the damage caused by hurricanes and floods in 1955.

"It would be foolhardy, in my judgment, to reduce the existing six-cent tax on a gallon of liquid fuel," the governor said. "We are obviously faced with a flood of highway traffic which equals in its emergency pressures the emergency of Hurricane Diane itself. We should, therefore, convert all the 'temporary' liquid fuel taxes to a permanent tax basis for the Motor License Fund."

No New Taxes

Leader emphasized that although the road-building program would be about $170,000,000 higher than in the current 1955-57 biennium, it would require "no new taxes, nor increases in license fees, nor additional authorizations to incur debt."

"Many Legislatures throughout the country are struggling with their highway finance problems," the governor said. "Ours are solved for this biennium if the Legislature will simply preserve the revenue status quo."

The Republican-controlled House of Representatives already has enacted legislation which would cut the gasoline tax to five cents after May 31. However, House leaders indicated they would consider retaining the tax at its current level "if the governor can make a good case for it."

The governor estimates revenue from the various sources which make up the Motor License Fund will come to $713,000,000 in the 1957-59 biennium. He predicted the

North Charleroi Officials Seek Traffic Light

Officials of North Charleroi Borough met yesterday in Monessen with District Engineer Norbert G. Bell to discuss the possibility of the state installing a traffic light at the North Charleroi side of the Charleroi-Monessen bridge.

The Borough is requesting the light because it fears critical traffic jams will result when the bridge is freed of tolls in May.

Bell said he will make an immediate survey.

The estimed cost of the traffic light has been set at $3,200. The Borough said it is and will be unable to pay the cost. It is looking to the state for financial help.

Present at the meeting with Bell at the City Building here were Burgess John McKay, Council President Frank Paterra and Secretary Eslo Benedetti. Mayor Hugo J. Parente, of Monessen, also attended.

Editors Urge 'Open Meeting' Law Be Passed

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Society of Newspaper Editors today urged passage of a proposed "open meeting" law now in the state Senate.

The bill, worked out jointly by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and Senate Majority Leader Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford) would nullify any action adopted at a meeting of a governmental body from which the public was excluded.

Joseph H. Adleman, PSNE president, said the legislation would "bring to an end once and for all secret meetings of government bodies."

The measure would require governmental bodies to hold all meetings at specified times and places, with the schedule made known to the public. In the event of a change, a public announcement of the new time and place would be required at least 48 hours in advance of the meeting.

Street Widening Delay

Downtown Project Held Up

Although planned for this spring, work on the widening and resurfacing of Schoonmaker avenue from Sixth to 12th streets is not expected to get started until fall, if then, Norbert G. Bell, district highway engineer, said here yesterday.

Speaking to members of City Council and representatives of various utility firms, Bell said a change in personnel in the State Highways Department and the lack of enough consultants to "follow through surveys" are responsible for the delay.

However, he said there is a possibility consultants will begin working on the surveys sometime next month.

Weather Problem

"If that happens, we should be able to start on the project by mid-June or early July. If so, we'll be able to have the job done before bad winter weather begins," Bell remarked.

But he added quickly that if the consultants fail to come through between March and June, "there is no use starting this year because we'll get into bad weather in the middle of the job.

"We don't want to have the streets torn up all winter," he declared.

Mayor Hugo J. Parente told the group he will be in Harrisburg tomorrow "to see what I can do about getting this project started so it can be completed this year."

During the course of the meeting, Bell outlined other planned improvements for the City and outlying areas. They include:

Donner avenue maintenance: Bell reported his department is awaiting approval of a survey submitted to Harrisburg for the purpose of having the state take over maintenance of Donner avenue. He said no legislative approval is necessary on the request since Donner avenue is less than one-mile in length. Records show the survey was submitted to Harrisburg last May and no action on it has been taken. The Mayor said he will also investigate this delay during his Harrisburg trip.

West Schoonmaker avenue repairs: Bell said he will investigate immediately the "dips" and rough surface on Schoonmaker from 14th street to the bridge. He promised state workmen would make repairs.

East Schoonmaker avenue: At the request of the Mayor, Bell said he would see "what can be done" about the widening and resurfac-

Cabinet Session Delayed; Split In Government

By UNITED PRESS

A worsening cabinet crisis today threatened Premier David Ben-Gurion's decision to withdraw Israeli troops from Egypt.

Ben-Gurion postponed for three hours a showdown parliament session in the face of the split in his own government and a threat by the opposition Herut (Freedom) Party to stage major anti-withdrawal demonstrations in the streets.

Tension mounted in the ancient city of Jerusalem as time for the Herut demonstration approached. Informed sources said they feared violence, and police were alerted for riot action.

Col. Nehemia Brosh, the Israeli army spokesman, announced five Arab Fedayeen commandos killed in two clashes Monday and said Israeli and Jordanian soldiers traded shots in a border incident that began when Jordanians opened fire on an Israeli patrol.

Approval Hopes Dim

Ben-Gurion had hoped to win approval of his policies in a series of votes of confidence today, but the hope dimmed when two political parties in his cabinet announced they would vote with the opposition of a motion of no-confidence.

A vote of no confidence would force Ben-Gurion's resignation.

Ben-Gurion also postponed a cabinet session this morning for more talks with his cabinet rebels.

United Nations sources in the Gaza Strip said Indian troops of the U.N. Emergency Force were ready to move from their base at Elarish into the southern half of the Gaza Strip the moment the Israeli forces withdraw.

The movement of U.N. troops to positions from which they could move quickly into Gaza began Monday. Details of the staggered Israeli withdrawal were still not available but military experts said it would take two or three weeks.

Indian Minister V. K. Krishna Menon flew to Cairo today and met at once with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt. Krishna Menon supported the Arab view in U.N. debate that there should not be free passage for Israeli shipping through the Gulf of Aqaba.

The Arab world was hardening its opposition to Israel's demands for freedom of shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba and against using U.N. Emergency Forces in the Gaza Strip.

There was no threat yet of action, but Ahmed El Shukeiri, assistant secretary general of the nine-nation Arab League, made the Arab position plain in talks Monday with U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare.

Shukeiri's statements to Hare were believed to be the opening shot in an Arab campaign against Israel's use of the Gulf of Aqaba. The leaders of Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan — whose countries border the gulf—and the

McDonald Lauds Automation and Atomic Energy

NEW YORK (UP)—Automation and atomic energy can be "twin blessings to raise the standards of the entire world," David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, said today.

"Modern labor organizations . . . see in these developments a new era of plenty for all," he said in a speech prepared for delivery to a lunch meeting of the New York Building Trade Congress.

The head of the 1,250,000-man union said although the two new developments "in the long run" will mean more jobs for more people, many individual workers will be replaced or downgraded by machines and in some cases lose their jobs.

He called on labor and management to meet the adjustment with adequate planning.

"We must include in this planning some provisions for retraining persons, who will be affected, before the new methods are installed," he said. "The costs of this retraining program should be added to the cost of the new machines."

McDonald also called on labor and management to end "hero and villain" roles in their relations so that they can build solid barriers against war and Communism.

He said the two working together should strive to raise living standards of 30 per cent of American families earning less than $2,000 a year.

Ash Wednesday Tomorrow Opens Lenten Season

Tomorrow, Ash Wednesday, begins the season of Lent.

The Lenten period commemorates the 40 days and 40 nights Our Lord spent and fasted in the desert before beginning His public life.

It was at the end of this period, Our Lord announced He was the Messiah.

Christians observe the season by doing penance and by depriving themselves of certain luxuries. Some observe by correcting or eliminating habits which they deem erroneous.

Most all Monessen district churches of all denominations have special services planned for Lent.

Tomorrow ashes will be distributed among Catholics. The placing of ashes on the forehead is to remind man that "Dust Thou Art and Dust Thou Shall Return".

The Lenten season will last until midnight the Saturday before Easter.

Easter this year is April 21.

Teamster Boss Dave Beck Pressured to Come Home

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Eisenhower administration put pressure on Teamster Union chief Dave Beck today to hurry home and be investigated.

The move came as Beck was subjected to bitter attack by AFL-CIO Vice President James B. Carey, who called him "a traitor to the labor movement."

Carey, at a press conference in Chicago Monday night, said if Beck's Teamsters "don't mend their ways they're in danger of expulsion" from the parent AFL-CIO.

Hearings Resume Today

"One corrupt international — or even one corrupt local—is one too many," Carey declared.

The Teamsters union has been linked with gambling, vice and political influence in Oregon in testimony before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee. Hearings resume this afternoon.

The administration's nudge to Beck came from Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell. He announced Monday night that Beck, now in Europe, will not be named to the U.S. delegation to an international labor conference in Germany.

Mitchell noted pointedly that Beck, wanted by the Senate investigators for questioning, gave his prospective attendance at the conference next week as one reason for not rushing home to testify.

Therefore, said the secretary, "I have decided not to nominate Mr. Beck as a member of the U.S. delegation" to the conference.

Man Arrested For Threatening Governor Leader

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The FBI announced today the arrest of John Clair Alden formerly of Pittsburgh, on the charge he sent a threatening letter to Gov. George M. Leader last Feb. 11.

Alden was arrested in Colorado Monday, according to the announcement by Carl E. Hennrich, special agent in charge of the Philadelphia bureau of the FBI.

The bare statement by Hennrich said that Alden, currently residing in Denver, mailed a letter addressed to "Governor Leeder, Harrisburg, Pa." from a Harrisburg mail box.

The letter threatened the governor, along with officials of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County with injury, Hennrich said.

The FBI said the "Governor Leeder" to whom the letter was addressed is the Pennsylvania governor.

Alden, 34, and single, was arrested by FBI agents in Colorado, according to Hennrich's announcement.

His arrest was on a complaint authorized by Asst. U. S. Attorney William Morgan of the Middle District of Pennsylvania at Scranton and on a warrant issued Monday by U. S. Commissioner Charles J. Ware at Harrisburg.

The FBI said Alden was listed for a hearing before a U. S. Commissioner at Denver today.

Officially Takes Over Cab Firm

Frank Mandarino, local garage dealer who last month purchased the Yello Cab Co. of Monessen, said today he has officially taken over the operation of the taxi firm.

Mandarino says he has plans for an expansion program which he will make public within a month.

Meanwhile, he said there will be no major changes in the operation of the seven-cab company.

Mandarino purchased the firm for $10,000 from Joseph Alverez. He also took over $9,155 in obligations and the former owner's franchise rights in the Monessen-Belle Vernon-North Belle Vernon areas.

The present office and waiting room are located just off Donner avenue between Sixth and Seventh streets.

Loyalty Day Parade Prizes

Cash prizes will be awarded at the annual Westmoreland County Loyalty Day parade to be held in Greensburg Saturday, April 27, it was announced today.

Plans call for the parade to include marching units, bands, flats, drill teams and miscellaneous units. Any group interested in participating is urged to contact Romeo J. Moschetti, of Greensburg, commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars District 27 and general chairman of the parade committee.

The parade is held annually to observe Loyalty Day in an effort to counteract some of the propaganda moves by Communist Russia with its May Day activities.

Jail Sentence Dropped In Provisions of Bill

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Republican leadership in the state Senate apparently has decided it was out-of-bounds in proposing jail sentences for state administrators who exceed their departmental budgets.

Although Senate Republican Leader Rowland B. Mahany (Crawford) said the GOP would sponsor legislation "making it a penal offense" for administrators to exceed their budgets without direct permission from the legislative leadership, the first bills on the subject omitted any proposed penalties.

"They took it out," Mahany said—indicating the other members of the GOP caucus would not go along on the idea.

The legislation introduced by Mahany late Monday merely would require the Public Assistance Department to have the approval of the executive committee of the Joint State Government Commission before making any changes in its schedules of relief payments.

Mahany said he also would sponsor legislation requiring other departments to keep within their budgets. But there will be no mention of any possible penal provisions, Mahany said.

The Senate Monday devoted all but a few minutes of its time to a sharp exchange over a bill which would make parents financially responsible up to $250 for acts of depredation or damage by their children.

Before the bill was approved by a vote of 34-14 and sent to the House, opponents criticised it as "too broad" and possibly lacking constitutionality.

Sen. William J. Lane (D-Washington) termed it the "kiddie car" bill, charging that it was so broad that youngsters riding their kiddie cars would be held responsible for damage to flower beds if they upset.

But Sen. Albert R. Pechan (R-Armstrong) the bill's sponsor, said that if the law could hold the owner of a dog responsible for damage done by a pet, the same thing should apply to children.

Seven Democrats joined the solid Republican delegation to send the bill to the House.

Mine Inspector

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today announced the appointment of J. Earl Lamont, Elmora, Cambria County, as a bituminous mine inspector replacing Carl Simon, of Vestaburg, who resigned. The position pays an annual salary of $8,500.

$600 'Sneak Theft' At Service Station

Dulles Hails Israel's Withdrawal Decision

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today hailed Israel's decision to withdraw troops from the Gaza and Aqaba areas as a move toward a "more stable, more tranquil," Middle East.

Dulles also said Egypt appears to have been dragging its feet on reopening the Suez Canal until it was assured Israeli troops actually would pull out of the Gaza and Aqaba areas.

He said he hopes the Egyptian foot-dragging will end.

Dulles declined to say how soon he expects the last Israeli soldier to be out of Egypt. But he said information available to him shows Israel is undertaking a reasonably expeditious withdrawal.

He said he believes the Suez Canal can be reopened to shipping in about 10 days if clearance work is now pressed vigorously.

Dulles opened his weekly news conference with a prepared statement saying "It is a matter of great gratification to the United States that the government of Israel has decided to complete its withdrawal" in compliance with United Nations demands.

He said a schedule for carrying out the withdrawal has been worked out with Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the U.N. Emergency Forces.

"We believe . . . that the decision will prove to have been a wise one from the standpoint not only of Israel but of all the nations concerned," Dulles said.

"It should, as President Eisenhower said, make it possible to bring about conditions in the area more stable, more tranquil, and more conducive to the general welfare than those which existed heretofore."

Dulles added that "once again it has been demonstrated that free world nations have a decent respect for the opinions of mankind."

Claims Revenue Head Admits He Could Take Cut

HARRISBURG (UP)—The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee said today the head of the state Revenue Department has admitted he could "live with" a budget $2,500,000 less than requested by Gov. George M. Leader.

Rep Norman Wood (R-Lancaster) said Revenue Secretary Gerald A. Gleeson made the admission during questioning before the joint House-Senate Appropriations committees Monday in response to a query by Rep. Blaine Hocker (R-Dauphin).

Hocker said the department would spend $13,500,000 during the current 1955-57 biennium at the present level of spending and drew an affirmative reply from Gleeson when he asked if the agency could operate with another $2,000,000 for the pending two-year fiscal period.

The budget would total $15,500,000. Leader had asked for $18,000,000 in his budget message, estimating the department would spend $17,290,000 during the 1955-57 biennium.

Sukarno Moves To Stave Off Open Revolt

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UP) — President Sukarno has moved to re-establish a once-popular alliance to stave off open revolt against his new conception of democracy, it was reported today.

Press reports said Sukarno wrote former Vice President Mohammad Hatta a letter Monday in an attempt to restore their cooperation that led Indonesia for more than a decade. Hatta is an active anti-Communist.

But as Sukarno attempted to salvage as much as possible of his plan to dump Western democracy for a "guided" state, including Communists, the rebellious Wirabuana division tightened its grip over all eastern Indonesia.

Lt. Col. N. H. Ventje Sumual, commander of the 7th Military District and leader of the rebel 51-man council, flatly rejected Sukarno's new political conception.

Sources in Jakarta said Sumual would "completely disassociate" eastern Indonesia from Jakarta rule if Sukarno's guided democracy plan were carried out.

Young Brothers Admit Killing Dad, TV-style

ARLINGTON, Va. (UP)—Sympathetic neighbors collected toys and organized a defense today for two young brothers who confessed they shot down their father TV-style and stuffed his body in a shed.

The two boys, 13-year-old Frank Dodd Jr. and 11-year-old James Dodd, were held at a juvenile shelter in this Washington suburb.

Police said the motherless boys confessed they murdered their middle aged father, Frank Dodd Sr., with a .22-caliber rifle Jan. 24 while he dozed in a chair. They said he beat them.

They told police they learned how to kill their father and dispose of his body from a television program.

Neighbors said they were collecting toys to send to the boys "to make things a little more pleasant" for them at the juvenile shelter while authorities debated whether they can be tried for murder.

Neighbors called the boys "shy" and "well behaved." They said they generally "kept to themselves." Some said the boys' 52-year-old construction worker father was continually beating and scolding them.

However, one woman who lives nearby the Dodd's white cottage home said the slain father "did his best to raise" the boys.

"I guess he was just too broken hearted after his wife died to do a good job," she said.

Cloves have been used for more than 4,000 years to sweeten the breath.

Inquiry into Dual Jobholding Is Continuing

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Labor and Industry Department reported today that 60 jobs have been abolished in the state Workmen's Insurance Fund and that an investigation is continuing into dual jobholding by some persons on the fund's payroll.

Milton Weisberg, acting department secretary, also told Gov. George M. Leader that a Justice Department inquiry showed that a number of the fund's subscribers "were dodging proper payments" and "we expect further discrepancies will be revealed."

Attorney General Thomas D. McBride said last month that a preliminary investigation uncovered eight cases of alleged fraud totaling $250,000 in improper payments into the fund by some employers.

Weisberg said when the Leader administration took office there were 431 persons on the fund's payroll and a study showed it could "not operate on a sound financial basis" with that number. He said 38 employes were dropped and 19 others transferred to the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation.

Your Health—

Annual Check-up Helps Combat Tuberculosis

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU may feel perfectly well — and yet be ill with tuberculosis. For, unfortunately, in the early stages of TB — the time when the disease can most easily be cured — there usually are no symptoms to warn you of your peril.

Eventually signs do appear, but often not until the disease has reached the advanced stage. Such symptoms may include loss of appetite, loss of weight, excessive fatigue, frequent colds, fever, chronic coughing, night sweats, indigestion and spitting up of blood.

Any one or all of these symptoms might be present yet they do not necessarily mean that you have TB. They do, however, mean that you should have a thorough physical checkup.

Even when you feel perfectly healthy, an annual examination is advisable. In addition to a thorough physical, I suggest your examination include:

1 —A Tuberculin test which can show whether TB germs are present in your body.

2 — A chest X-ray which can show whether TB germs have done any damage.

3 — Laboratory tests to find out if TB germs are growing and escaping from the body.

I urge all of you over the age of 15 to have a chest X-ray taken annually. This is especially advisable if your tuberculin test proves positive.

While children between the ages of 5 and 15 are less likely to have active TB than are adults, they should have an annual checkup, too.

Of course, if you have been exposed to the disease, you should have examinations more frequently than once a year.

We can cure the vast majority of cases of TB. But you've got to help us help you.

Wildest Actor Of the Year Is Timothy Carey

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Anybody who thinks Hollywoodites are normal persons like the folks next door should meet Timothy Carey, the strangest, wildest actor of them all.

Carey played the role of the creepy killer in last year's "The Killing," one of the best whodunits of many a season. In person he is creepier and makes Marlon Brando and Jack Palance look proper as Sunday school teachers.

A Mobile, Ala., theater man who saw the picture got so excited over Tim he produced his first movie, "Bayou", in order to star the 24-year-old Carey. Tim gets special billing in his next picture, "Paths of Glory", starring Kirk Douglas.

But before this success were years of troubles, apparently because of his inhibited behavior.

Carey admittedly has been tossed out of every studio in town. He was asked to leave one picture because he got actress Phyllis Kirk in hysterics. He was booted out of "The Wild One" because he made Brando nervous.

To get auditions with movie producers he three times broke into their offices, pulled out a gun and started shooting them and himself. The fact he used only blanks and was trying to show them he could act didn't make the producers any less angry. They asked him to leave.

He was expelled from five schools in his native Brooklyn, the Marine Corps and nearly every job he's tried while hitchhiking across the county. He's slept in vacant lots and cellars. Despite the fact he works regularly in Hollywood, he bought a four-room house 25 miles away in a poor section of the city.

Farmers' Income Is Up, Federal Survey Shows

Spendable Income Higher; Larger Farm Population

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department said today farmers' spendable income in 1956 rose to an estimated $11,836,000,000 —$500 million more than in 1955.

But because of a slightly rising farm population the spendable income of each man, woman, and child from farm sources averaged $599—$7 less than in 1955.

Spendable income — technically realized net income—is the amount available for spending after the farmer has paid all his production expenses. It does not include any adjustment for the value of changes in crop and livestock inventories.

Soil bank and wool incentive program payments accounted for about $300 million of the increase in realized net income. The remaining $200 million reflected increased cash receipts from farm marketings which were only partly offset by higher production expenses.

There was a net liquidation of about $250 million of inventories in livestock and crops, especially cattle. In 1955, there was a net accumulation of $340 million in inventories. Net income of farm operators after adjustment for inventory change was $11.6 billion in 1956 compared with $11.7 billion in 1955.

Total Income Up

The 1956 realized net income of $11.8 billion in terms of buying power was only 3 per cent above 1955 because last year's dollar was worth only about 99 cents in terms of the 1955 dollar. This decline in the value of farm dollars reflected the fact that prices of non-agricultural goods and services increased more than farm prices last year.

In its final report on 1956 farm income, the department said the total income of the farm population amounted to $19 8 billion, one per cent above 1955 This included $11.6 billion after adjustment for inventory change, $1 7 billion in farm wages, and $6.5 billion of income from non-farm sources.

Using the total income from both farm and non-farm sources as a base, the per capita income of the farm population was $889. up one per cent from the $881 average of 1955.

Last year was the first time since 1951 that per capita income did not decline. The per capita income of the non-farm population increased 4 per cent in 1956—up $75 from $1,935 in 1955 to $2,010 in 1956.

committee member, praised Mitchell for a "cooperative attitude." Mundt said he thinks the move will "bring to a head" the question of whether Beck will show up soon for quizzing.

The rackets committee has been trying for some time to get Beck to testify concerning his personal finances and charges of vice and racket deals involving his biggest-in-the-nation union.

AFL - CIO President George Meany, who nominated Beck to attend the labor conference in Germany before the current Senate inquiry was launched, said he was "not surprised" at Mitchell's action.

Meany told reporters he will try to find a substitute for Beck, but may not be able to obtain the necessary security clearance before the conference in Hamburg, Germany, next week.

12 Airmen in Jump From Crippled Plane

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UP)—Twelve survivors of maiden parachute jumps refused to worry today about throwing away all their luggage in a futile attempt to save a $561,000 C119 Flying Boxcar.

"I guess our gear is scattered over quite a few miles," said Capt. Franklin Greenspan, of Rantoul, Ill., pilot and commander on the flight from Chanute Air Force Base Ill., to Charleston AFB S C

Greenspan said crew members and passengers dumped 1,000 pounds of personal luggage in their attempt to keep the plane from losing altitude after one of the two engines cracked out during a rain Monday night.

"But we kept losing altitude at 1,000 feet a minute, and I gave the order to begin bailing out at 6,000 feet," he said. "This was the first time I had ever bailed out in 14 years of flying.

"In fact, none of us had ever jumped before."

Greenspan said the three other crew members and eight airman passengers jumped in perfect order and none was hurt. They were confined to the Ft. Jackson, S.C., base hospital for observation, however.

The plane crashed in a wooded area south of the Columbia Municipal Airport. A board of Air Force officers roped off the area to keep crowds away until investigators could seek the cause of the engine failure.

"I can't honestly answer that I was the last one out," Greenspan said. "I took the forward escape hatch and most of the others went out of the aft hatch."

"I saw the ground about two seconds before I hit. Some trees were coming up at me so I covered my face The wind was knocked out of me a little but otherwise I felt fine," he said.

Supreme Court Rejects Review Of Payments

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Supreme Court has refused to examine a Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruling barring unemployment compensation payments to Westinghouse workers pending judicial review of their claims.

The refusal, announced Monday, means the workers must wait until the Pennsylvania Superior Court has passed on the validity of the claims The case stems from the 156-day strike against Westinghouse which ended March 20 1956.

The Bureau of Employment Security of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor allowed compensation to workers for the last nine weeks of the strike on grounds that part of the strike constituted a lockout A referee recommended the bureau be sustained, but appeals still are pending before the Unemployment Compensation Board of Review.

Westinghouse and 71 other firms successfully petitioned Dauphin County Court for an order barring any payments until the Superior Court decides the claimants' eligibility The county court's order was affirmed by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court last Oct. 1.

Ike Considering Trip to Warm, Dry Climate

WASHINGTON (UP)—The White House says President Eisenhower is considering a trip to a warm, dry climate to get rid of the cough that has bothered him since Inauguration Day.

However, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Monday that the President has made no final decision on whether or when to go. Mr. Eisenhower said last week he would like to go to Tucson, Ariz.

"The President, as you know, has a cough which he has had for some time," Hagerty said. "All of us, including the President, would like to see him get rid of that cough. Whether we would go to an area like Tucson has been discussed but there has been no decision one way or the other."

FBI Investigates $50,000 Sharon Bank Robbery

SHARON, Pa. (UP)—The FBI today entered the investigation of the robbery of the Hickory branch of the McDowell National Bank of Sharon.

A gunman, wearing dark glasses, pork-pie hat, red scarf and checkered topcoat and sporting a false mustache, robbed the bank at about 10 a.m. Monday of more than $50,000

He ordered nine customers and four employes to stand aside, then vaulted a counter and handed a blue shopping bag, or duffel bag, to teller Jack Logan He told Logan to "clear out the drawers."

Harrison Reinhart, manager of the branch bank, said the gunman got away with the contents of the night depository, three cash drawers and four money bags

The holdup took only a few minutes. The robber fled in an automobile parked outside the bank A half hour later the car, which had been stolen two weeks ago in New Castle was found abandoned with the motor running near a service station in downtown Sharon.

Police said the robber evidentially had another auto waiting near the service station.

John S. Bycroft president of the McDowell bank, said the loot was "in excess of $50,000" leaders of Syria declared last month the gulf was territorial waters.

Israeli sources at the United Nations meanwhile said President Eisenhower had given Israel a "moral commitment" to back the guarantees of free passage demanded by Israel for its withdrawal. The sources said the President's letters to Ben-Gurion last weekend was the major factor leading to Israel's withdrawal.

The United Nations itself was in adjournment — probably until Thursday — when U N Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold will report on the progress of the withdrawal operations.

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, head of the UNEF team that will take over the Israelis, was in the no man's land of Jerusalem preparing a report to Hammarskjold on his preliminary talks with Maj Gen Mosche Dayan, Israeli chief of staff.

ing of Schoonmaker avenue from Delaware avenue to Monessen Highway (Tyrol Pass). When the state began widening a portion of Schoonmaker avenue a few years ago, it stopped its program at Delaware.

Monessen-Webster Road (Route 906): After a personal inspection of the hazardous Monessen — Webster road yesterday afternoon with the Mayor Councilman John Kotch, Jr., and City Engineers John Kotch, III, and Richard Belan, Bell promised an immediate survey. He said he believes one solution for eliminating the threat of falling rocks and dirt would be to "slope off the hillside.

"If we can do this, we could slope it off in such a way as to provide two 'benches' to catch any cascade of rock or dirt before it could reach the highway, "Bell stated.

He said a previous survey made on the possibility of re-locating this road over the hill area on the east side of the road revealed that the cost would be prohibitive.

Monessen Highway (Route 64259) connecting Monessen and Pricedale): Survey crews are working on the stretch now. The state, Bell said, plans to widen and "straighten out" curves on the road, which will eventually connect with the Turnpike Spur.

gasoline tax, if kept at six cents per gallon, will yield $316,665,000 with motor licenses bringing in another $171,284,000 and the federal government contributing the remainder.

Of the total, $606,765,392 will be spent directly on construction and maintenance. The remainder would be divided thus:

State police, $21,000,000; Revenue Department for collection of taxes and issuing of licenses, $18,570,000; retirement benefits for state employes, $5,000,000; driver training classes in schools, $1,720,000; refunds to farmers of gasoline taxes for fuel used in agriculture, $2,000,000; airport development, $1,213,000; refunds to municipalities for maintenance of local roads, $63,000,000.

The governor said that if the one-cent emergency tax was not retained on a permanent basis, local communities would receive only $52,000,000 from the Motor License Fund in the next two years.

One of the major increases in the budget is the allocation for contract engineering and design. Leader said $24,000,000 is being earmarked for these purposes in contrast to the $14,000,000 the state is spending in the current biennium.

"We are employing the best skills we can find in a highly competitive market," the governor said. "It should be evident that a great new highway system, as is contemplated in the federal program, will not design itself."

The budget allocated $169,000,000 for the three road programs to which the federal government contributes on a matching basis—$37,000,000 on federal aid secondary roads; $61,000,000 on federal aid primary roads, and $71,000,000 on urban extensions

New Projects

The governor said that in the next two years 1,197 miles of highway on the federal aid system will be placed under contract He said the administration has no plans for increasing the borrowing power of the state Highway and Bridge Authority although it contemplates using $40,000,000 which has been authorized by past legislatures.

Before the end of the session, he governor indicated the administration also will support legislation which it considers a necessary adjunct to its road building program. Such legislation, Leader said, would:

—Try to attract trained personnel for work in the department through establishment of a "career service"

—Establish a system of scholarships in engineering schools in the state

—Prepare for eventual transition of the Pennsylvania Turnpike to a free road.

Would Reduce Squire Numbers

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Legislature has received a proposed constitutional amendment which would reduce the number of Allegheny County squires and constables from 300 to 40.

A House bill introduced Monday would limit aldermen and constables to one for every 40,000 persons in the county and create "aldermanic districts" The aldermen and constables would serve six-year terms.

The proposed amendment, sponsored by Rep. Maurice H. Goldstein (R-Allegheny), is opposed by the Squires and Constables Association of Pennsylvania.

Scholarship Fund in State Recommended In Commission Report

HARRISBURG (UP)—A study group today recommended to Gov. George M. Leader establishment of a statewide system of achievement and aptitude testing for all Pennsylvania high school seniors as part of a proposed comprehensive state - financed scholarship and loan program.

The governor's Commission on Higher Education also suggested creation of a 17-member independent Commission on Higher Education, to be responsible for coordination and planning in the field of higher education, and to take over such activities now under the state Council of Education.

The commission would include the president of Pennsylvania State University, the chief executive officers of the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Pennsylvania and Temple University, the presidents of two state teachers colleges, and the presidents of five independent colleges or universities.

The study group, headed by Paul R. Anderson, president of Chatham College, Pittsburgh, also recommended.

—The Commonwealth "develop a cohesive, sound, long-range policy concerning higher education."

—The Commonwealth institute a scholarship and loan program, with four-year scholarships to be awarded on the basis of merit as determined by the testing program, available for use in any approved institution of higher education in the state, and valued at $300 or one-half the tuition cost, whichever is less, and a loan fund to provide further assistance. The loan would be determined by the need in each case

—Encourage the establishment of new institutions with programs of less than four years, with the cost of such new facilities to be borne by funds from the local community, tuition and the Commonwealth.

—Give particular attention to the fields of general education in the arts and sciences, teacher education, and engineering, technical and graduate education.

Connelly and Caudle Given Prison Terms

ST LOUIS (UP) — Two high Truman administration officials were sentenced today to serve two years in prison and fined $2,500 each for conspiracy to fix a tax case.

Federal Judge Gunnar Nordbye of Minneapolis sentenced Matthew J. Connelly, White House appointments secretary to former President Truman, and T Lamar Caudle, onetime head of the Justice Department's tax division, after turning down motions for a new trial.

The motions included one filed only late Monday contending that trial Judge Rubey M. Hulen was not mentally or physically able to have presided over the drawn-out trial.

Nordbye was assigned the case after Hulen died last July, less than one month after the trial, of a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Polio Victim, Doctors Use Four Iron Lungs in Death Struggle

MEMPHIS, Tenn (UP) — A 24-year-old polio victim staved a few gasps from death for eight hours Monday during a struggle between doctors and four successive iron lungs

Three of the iron lungs proved faulty and Robert Thorne, kept alive by hand pumping, was "turning blue" when a brigade of rescuers finally got him and his borrowed lung safely to Baptist Hospital in a moving van.

"He's resting now," Thorne's father, William R. Thorne, said early today. "The doctor gave him a sedative so he would sleep. He is being fed through a tube in his nose to help him breathe."

Fought For Breath

For a polio victim paralyzed as badly as Thorne, one transfer is a dangerous ordeal. But Thorne had to be moved back into his own leaking lung each time a new one broke down, because his own lung was easier to pump by hand

Each transfer, with Thorne fighting for breath, took two minutes.

"Right at the last he began growing pale and turning blue," Thorne's father said. "He was extremely nervous, but he kept talking to us, telling us what he wanted."

The elder Thorne said he was told that doctors will not know for possibly a day or so how seriously the former Army depot clerk, a father of two children, was injured by the series of near suffocations.

"They would put him in a new lung, see that it wouldn't work, then put him back into the lung that he used at home," he said.

Had Police Escort

"They gave him I don't know how many tanks of oxygen before they took him to the hospital And there were four squad cars that escorted the moving van to the hospital"

The moving van was the second one called The first was too small. When the caravan finally rolled police had blocked off the entire route to the hospital.

But police could not help when the elevator also proved, so far as they could tell at first, to be too small for the lung

"We practically had to stuff him in the elevator," an ambulance attendant said "We had to put his face against the front of the lung to get him inside so we could shut the elevator door.

"All the time he was gasping and fighting for breath like a fish out of water."

The elder Thorne said his son, originally stricken by polio on Nov. 1, 1954, had been in mortal danger since the pressure "dropped" suddenly in the first lung about eight hours before he reached the hospital.

Pardons Board Action in Erie Scandal Probed

HARRISBURG (UP) — A special legislative committee will resume its investigation Wednesday into clemency granted 16 persons in the 1954 Erie gambling bribe scandal by the state Pardons Board.

A committee member charged during Monday's public hearings that the board gives "special consideration" to some cases brought before it.

"The board has one set of rules for normal people in Pennsylvania and another set for people who get special consideration," Rep. Clarence D. Bell (R-Delaware) said in commenting on board action two years ago on pleas for commutations made by former Mayor Thomas W. Flatley and 15 others after their convictions in the scandal.

Board Secretary Frank R. Hean testified under questioning by committee counsel David R. Kohn that he may have destroyed notes he took at executive meetings of the board that cut Flatley's sentence from 1½ to three years to 11 months and five days. But he said they were taken "just for my own use."

Hean said that in some cases the board originally reduced the sentences to a flat year, but changed them later by a few days so the men could leave prison before Christmas.

The board secretary said Flatley admitted in his application to the board of clemency that he (Flatley) received some money "he understood to come from the gambling element of the city." Flatley, according to Hean, said he was offered the extra money by Stanley Swartz, a Democratic figure in Erie, and John J. Martin, Erie police commissioner.

Three Leaders Convicted

Martin and Swartz both were charged with bribery and conspiracy and had their sentences commuted. Flatley was convicted of violating his oath of office and conspiracy.

Hean testified there could have been influence exerted on the board in the commutations granted in the Erie cases but denied he had any knowledge of any such pressure.

Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton) asked Hean if he knew of any improper or political influence exerted on the board in the Erie cases.

"I know of no such influence of any type," Hean replied.

But when he was asked whether there could have been influence exerted without his knowledge, Hean said it was possible.

"But I must add the actions of the board seem to have been in conformity with President Judge Elmer L. Evans (the sentencing judge) who I do not believe was a member of our political party," he said.

The committee session also featured a dispute between Attorney General Thomas D. McBride and Kohn over the failure to recall to the stand J. Harold Hughes, assistant district attorney for Delaware County.

Hughes was to have testified further about clemency granted in several Delaware County cases two years ago. But Kohn said the prosecutor would be recalled later.

McBride charged the delay was "unfair" and said he should have been given the opportunity to cross-examine Hughes as soon as possible.

Lung Cancer Pioneer Dies Of Lung Cancer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UP) — Dr Evarts A. Graham, who touched off a medical controversy by suggesting a possible link between cigarettes and lung cancer, has died at the age of 73 of lung cancer.

Graham died late Monday at Barnes Hospital where he served 32 years as chief surgeon.

Graham first suggested a possible connection between cigarettes and lung cancer in a speech before the Inter - American Congress of Surgeons at Chicago.

Four years later, Graham and two associates reported in a medical publication that two years of laboratory research on the subject showed "positive evidence" that cancer could be produced by cigarette tars.

He retired in 1951 from active practice as a surgeon and as head of the surgery department of the Washington University School of Medicine here.

32 Cases Handled By County Coroner

The Westmoreland County Coroner's office in Greensburg handled 32 cases during February, Coroner Stephen D. Yoney, of Monessen, revealed today.

Auto accidents accounted for three deaths, making a total of five traffic fatalities in the county since Jan. 1.

Two persons died from falls, one committee suicide and another drowned accidentally. Burns proved fatal to one person.

Heart disease accounted for 19 deaths.

BABY'S BODY FOUND IN CLOSET — An autopsy disclosed that Mary Jane Barker, whose body was found in a bedroom closet of an unoccupied, new house two blocks from her home in Bellmawr, N. J., probably died of starvation or fright. A live puppy found with the body is held by Dr. Robert Sauer, a veterinarian. The girl had been missing for more than a week.

Starvation Blamed in Four-year-old's Death

BELLMAWR, N. J. (UP) — Four-year-old Mary Jane Barker, trapped for a week in the closet of a vacant home searched three times by volunteers, died accidentally of starvation and exposure, Camden County Coroner Robert J. Blake said Monday.

An autopsy showed the girl apparently was alive for three days in the dark, cold closet before she died, Blake added.

An inspection of the closet of the home, which still is under construction, showed smudge marks of little fists on the plaster wall where the child apparently pounded in a futile attempt to escape.

Mary Jane was found dead Sunday by a six-year-old playmate, Maria Fiaietta, after a week-long search. A puppy with which she was playing when last seen alive also was in the closet, but the dog was alive and frisky.

Blake said medical experts agreed the girl apparently was alive until some time Thursday. He said adults could live six or seven days without food or water and that Mary Jane, being a "healthy, robust, normal child," most likely survived for three days in the three by five foot closet.

The four-month-old puppy was put to death Monday to enable veterinarians of the University of Pennsylvania to examine its stomach contents to try to establish why the dog outlived little Mary Jane. The tests also sought to determine if the dog had been without food and water since disappearing along with the child.

Blake said the youngster wandered into the closet while playing with the dog and that she apparently pulled the door closed behind her. The door had an inch-long screw type handle which turns the lock and Blake said the action was stiff and Mary Jane apparently was unable to open it.

Volunteers who scoured the area seeking the youngster said they searched the vacant home three times. However, none of the closet in which Mary Jane's fully-clothed body was found.

The puppy was owned by the Fraietta family, and Maria, who lives two doors away from the Barker home, was inspecting the home with her mother and a relative who owns the property.

Some Questions and Answers Advanced on Fluoridation Issue

(Third in a series)

Arguments for the proposed program of water fluoridation will be made tonight at a meeting to be held in the auditorium of the Monessen High School.

On the basis of experience in other communities it can be expected that strong viewpoints will be advanced on both sides of the Monessen Junior Women's Club's recommendation that fluorine be added to the area's water supply as a method of preventing tooth decay.

The Junior Women's Club has invited many interested parties to the meeting, scheduled to begin at 8 p. m., to discuss the fluoridation process in the tri-community water supply of Monessen, Charleroi and Donora.

The three communities get their water from one source, the Authority of the Borough of Charleroi.

There is expected to be opposition to the program voiced at tonight's meeting. In contrast to scientific evidence, the opposition will rely on several claims, chief of which seems to be a fear of "mass medication."

Here are some of the assertions that will probably be made and the scientific facts about such assertions:

Fluorides in the public water supply have a harmful effect on human beings.

For generations, more than 4,000,000 people in tht United States have spent all their lives in areas such as Colorado Springs, Colo., and Bartlett, Tex., where the drinking water naturally contains Fluorides in higher concentration than that used for dental health. In addition, 28,000,000 people in 1,300 communities drink artificially fluoridated water. Repeated long-terms studies by painstaking investigators have found no adverse physiological effect.

Fluorides mottle the teeth and turn them brown.

This is true in those communities with natural fluoridation where the concentration is high. When water naturally contains 2 to 2.5 parts of fluorine for each million, the teeth of those drinking the water become mottled. In the use of fluorides as a dental health measure, one part fluorine in a million is used. At this level there is no mottling or staining.

The amount of fluorine to be added to the water cannot be controlled effectively.

Chlorine has been added routinely to the public water supply in most cities for many years with no problems of control. Equipment of the same type is used for adding fluorine.

Fluorine is a poisonous substance found in rat poison and insecticides.

This is true. Fluorides in large conecntrations are dangerous, but so is sodium chloride, or ordinary table salt, and many other substances we consume daily.

Fluoridation is still in the experimental stage.

Fluoridation has been under study for more than 25 years. Large-scale experimental studies, such as those conducted in Newburgh, N.Y.; Grand Rapids, Mich., and Evanston, Ill., have proved both its value and safety. These studies have showed that water fluoridation prevents the lifetime accumulation of dental defects by about 65 per cent.

Monessen, Donora and Charleroi cannot afford the cost of installing the equipment and maintenance of fluoridation.

Preventing decay in about 16 teeth a person at a lifetime cost of less than $7 is a health bargain, experts say. The cost of an average filling will pay for fluoridation for one person for about 30 years. Experts said fluoridation will cost about 15 cents per person per year.

Fluoridation is illegal.

In 15 court cases, fluoridation was upheld 14 times. In the one exception the ruling was reversed by a higher court. It has been upheld in all seven cases taken to state supreme courts.

Senate May Approve Ike Doctrine Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate drove today to pass the Eisenhower Doctrine for the middle East by nightfall.

The Senate faced action on several proposed amendments to the doctrine before it could get to a final vote.

However, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said he had a "strong hope" the Senate would vote on the doctrine before the day was out.

He declined to speculate on the outcome of the vote. But it appeared almost certain the final margin would be wide.

Senate - House differences on the doctrine would be worked out in a joint conference committee.

Other congressional news

Budget: The House Rules Committee called a meeting to discuss a GOP resolution that would clamp a $65 billion ceiling on the nation's 1958 budget. That would mean a $6.8 billion cut in the record peacetime budget proposed by the administration.

Knowland: Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland said the proposed $71.8 billion budget should be slashed "upwards of $2 billion." However, he also predicted no major tax reductions during the 85th Congress' first session.

Security: The Senate Internal Security subcommittee asked the State Department to bring home for questioning three foreign service officers. A subcommittee spokesman said the three officers had submitted "faulty intelligence reports in the past." Only one officer was identified: John K. Emerson, U.S. Embassy counsel in Beirut, Lebanon.

Some Turncoats Freed, Others Jailed Because Of Legal Technicality

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — At the end of the Korean War, 23 American soldiers who were taken prisoner chose to remain in Red China rather than come home to the United States.

Two of these turncoat POW's, Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson of Crackers Neck, Va., and Cpl Claude J. Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., changed their minds within a few months. They came home, and are now serving long prison terms at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., for collaborating with the Communists.

Nine other Army men, returned in a regular prisoner exchange after the 1953 armistice, were court martialed as collaborators and given sentences ranging from temporary suspension of rank to 10 years imprisonment.

Seven other turncoats returned home much later. All of these tardy prodigals are now free. A legal technicality has made it impossible for the Army to try them on collaboration charges.

Aware Of Situation

Army officials are acutely aware of this situation. In private conversation, they readily admit that it violates the American concepts of fair play and equal justice for all.

But the Army's hands are tied. On Feb. 23, 1954, after Dickenson and Batchelor had returned the 21 turncoats still in Red China were given dishonorable discharges. This was done at the direction of Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and over the protests of Army legal experts.

Cpl. Otho G. Bell, Olympia, Wash., Cpl. Lewis E. Griggs, Jacksonville, Tex., and Cpl. William A. Cowart, Monticello, Ark., were the first three men to return from China after Wilson's order was carried out. They arrived in July, 1955.

The Army immediately moved to bring them before courts martial on the same kind of collaboration charges on which Dickenson and Batchelor were convicted. Dickenson got 10 years; Batchelor 20.

Rules Out Court Martial

But Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman of San Francisco ruled that military jurisdiction over Bell, Griggs and Cowart had ended with their dishonorable discharged. He said they could not be tried by court martial.

The same legal barrier has prevented the Army from proceeding against Pvt. Richard R. Tenneson of Alden, Minn., who returned in December, 1955; Pfc Arlie H. Pate of East Carondelet, Ill., and Pfc. Aaron P. Wilson of Urania, La., both of whom returned in December, 1956; and Pvt. Samuel D. Hawkins of Oklahoma City, Okla., who came out of Red China only a few days ago.

The Army has stated officially that it has evidence which it thinks warrants prosecution of all of the turncoats of collaborators with the Reds.

Different Charges

The charges would not be based on their original decision to refuse repatriation. They would be accused, rather of having informed on fellow Americans, helped Communist brainwashers, or otherwise aided the enemy while in prisoner of war camps before the Korean armistice.

Since the Army cannot try the seven men who were dishonorably discharged before their return, any future action against them is up to the Justice Department and federal civil courts.

A Justice Department spokesman told the United Press that all seven cases are "now under active study."

Good Samaritan Is Unlucky

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Bible thief got off scot-free, but a good samaritan didn't Monday in municipal court.

Willis L. Richardson, a 26-year old good samaritan if there ever was one, was fined $25 for operating an automobile without a license.

The Washington man told a lady judge that all he was doing was pushing a friend's car to a garage. He said the car's battery was dead. Police said he steered part of the time through the front window.

The judge said the price of friendship besides the $25 was an extra $5 for not showing the car's registration and $10 more for operating a car not bearing a front license plate.

But a 30-year old Bible thief, Robert W. Feeser of Hanover, Pa. made out a lot better when he pleaded guilty to removing the Good Book from a department store without benefit of payment.

The judge—a man—asked with appropriate old testament sternness "Don't you know it's wrong to steal even a Bible?"

"Yes, I know," Feeser said, piously. "That's the Eighth Commandment. I don't know why I did it."

Pittsburgh's Scandals

SOME RECENT events in the City of Pittsburgh have been making rather sensational newspaper reading, and the more the public learns about these events, the less respect it seems likely to have for Pittsburgh's municipal management.

Private clubs open and selling liquor at any and all hours; the same clubs frequented by police officers, racketeers and prostitutes; deliberate concealment by the police even after a shooting — the whole picture smacks of civic rottenness.

Pittsburgh for a long time has been presided over by its mayor, David L. Lawrence, who bears a dual reputation as a practicing politician, frequently helping even to select candidates for President on the Democratic ticket, and as a master of municipal administration.

We do not see how this latter portion of Mr. Lawrence's reputation can fail to suffer from the disclosures now being made. For if Mr. Lawrence is half as smart as he is represented as being, it was not necessary for a policeman to be shot in an after-hours club to demonstrate to him that beneath the surface of his city's well advertised "renaissance" are some rather unlovely conditions which a master municipal administrator should not tolerate overnight.

Most of what happens in Pittsburgh, of course, is of only passing interest for those of us who live outside the metropolitan area. But the influence of Mayor Lawrence is felt heavily outside of Pittsburgh, and what he does or fails to do in the job which is his immediate responsibility bears upon his influence elsewhere.

Speaking quite frankly about it, some of the conditions which are known to prevail under Mr. Lawrence's aegis do not suggest to us that he is the ideal man to be the No. 1 boss of one of Pennsylvania's major political parties. In short, the people of Pittsburgh are welcome to have the gentleman for their mayor if they want him; we just wish there was some way his talents could be contained entirely by that city.

Israel's Contribution

AFTER WHAT obviously was a period of the most agonizing reappraisal of its national policies, the government of Israel has finally decided to comply with United Nations decisions and withdraw from Egypt. Premier Ben-Gurion gave the order for the withdrawal yesterday.

Israel deserves the thanks of the whole world for this action, taken clearly against the better judgment of many of its leaders. Israel deserved criticism for its wholly illegal attack upon Israel, but in international affairs there must be no such thing as irredeemable sin.

Israel is entitled, we believe, to regard its withdrawal as an act of faith, not only in the United Nations but in the United States as well, for it was largely at this government's urging that the decision was made.

President Eisenhower acknowledged in his recent address to the nation that "perhaps the world community has been at fault in not having paid enough attention" to the chronic troubles between Israel and its Arab neighbors, including the persistent Arab attacks on Israel which led to the latter's massive retaliation.

But we think the American people thoroughly agree with the President when he stated that, once the "present act of aggression (Israel's attack on Egypt)" is undone, "there should be a greater effort by the United Nations and its members to secure justice and conformity with international law". Mr. Eisenhower did not need to add: by the Arabs as well as by Israel.

The Nixon Trip

RICHARD NIXON, our young and somewhat controversial Vice President, is doing one of the things he does best on his present visit to some of the lesser known but increasingly important countries of Africa.

Mr. Nixon possesses exceptional skill at this sort of thing. For one thing, he is a genuinely enthusiastic American, which gives his goodwill diplomacy an authenticity which is invaluable. He is also a genuinely friendly person. Add to this the fact that he has the complete confidence of the President and a place of great influence in the government, put his charming wife at his side, and you have a combination just about unbeatable.

The President sent Mr. Nixon to Africa because he realizes that Africa is going to have a lot to say about the kind of world this is going to be, if not so much in our own time certainly in our children's time.

It is a shrewd and timely gesture, and Mr. Nixon can be counted upon to make the most of it.

From Washington—

What Next After Israel Withdraws?

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The withdrawal of Israeli troops from the Egyptian shores of the Gulf of Aqaba and the Gaza Strip does not wipe the Middle East crisis from the map.

It is an indispensable beginning, but it does not of itself guarantee Arab - Israeli peace, it simply provides the opportunity to build toward it. Either Egypt must be ready to match Israel's obedience to the United Nations or the United Nations must be ready to take those steps to insure the peace it has long unidly neglected.

Mr. Drummond

The presence of Israeli forces on Egyptian soil, however acute the provocation, made it almost impossible for the United Nations to act even-handedly. There were just too many conflicting pressures to permit it to mediate between two wrongs, with the Israeli invasion being the most immediate and visible wrong.

This is why the negotiations had to be shifted from the United Nations to Washington, and it deserves to be put strongly into the record that Secretary of State Dulles contributed the creative proposal which persuaded Prime Minister Ben-Gurion to comply with the U. N. resolution without advance U. N. guaranties.

U. N. Stalemated

It became increasingly clear during the last two weeks:

That the mechanism of the United Nations was making no headway toward breaking the deadlock with Israel.

That the U. N. had gotten itself into the position wherein all it could talk about was sanctions, while all Israel could see was the defense of its rights by force.

That a fresh approach was absolutely necessary and ought to be tried in an atmosphere which recognized that all the wrong was not on one side.

This was the point at which Mr. Dulles took over direct negotiations, mostly with Abba Eban, the extremely able Israeli Ambassador to the United States. Mr. Dulles knew that he couldn't offer any conclusive guarantee that the United States would convoy Israeli shipping through the Gulf of Aqaba to the Israeli port of Elath. But he did assure Israel that the United States would put an American ship through the Egyptian-bordered international waters which he believed would establish the right of free passage for all nations.

Dulles Deserves Credit

This was imaginative diplomacy. While President Eisenhower gave unwavering support to his Secretary of State, the principal credit rightly belongs to Mr. Dulles. The tendency of the Israelis at first was to minimize the importance of the Dulles assurance to turn it aside. But the more Ambassador Eban saw its implications, the better he liked it. He, more than anyone else, persuaded Ben-Gurion that Mr. Dulles was making a solid, significant and far-reaching offer. The implications were these:

If American shipping could ply the waters of the Gulf of Aqaba, Egypt could not prevent Israeli shipping from going the same unless it resorted to new belligerency.

If Mr. Dulles could say, as he did at a press conference, that President Eisenhower would have the right to use force to defend an American ship using these waters for innocent passage, Prime Minister Ben-Gurion would have the right to use force to defend an Israeli ship if there was renewed interference.

The significant fact is that Israel, by withdrawing its troops in response to the U. N., is putting itself morally, politically and internationally in the right.

If there are new border raids against Israel, if there is new Egyptian interference with Israeli shipping, then Egypt will, it seems to me, be putting itself morally, politically and internationally in the wrong.

Must Look Ahead

The need is to look ahead, not back. The Arab nations may have come nearer to recognizing that Israel is not going to be pushed into the sea. The climate at the U. N. is improved and there seems a firm determination to prevent any return to the lacerating conditions which preceded the invasion.

The Israeli agreement is not going to usher in paradise in this area of tense and bitter conflicts. But it recaptures the initiative on the side of peace. It begins a momentum which, if pressed, can lead to further gains. One immediate by-product will likely be the easier and quicker approval of the Eisenhower Doctrine in the Senate — now that the irrelevant issue of sanctions against Israel is removed.

It's a Fact—

The federal Civil Defense administration is charged with the responsibility of minimizing the effects of enemy attacks on persons and property.

Merry-Go-Round—

'Other Side' of Oregon Story

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—There is more than meets the eye behind the sensational parade of narcotics addicts, underworld characters, petty gamblers, and madams that Senator McClellan of Arkansas has brought before his committee during his probe of the Teamsters.

Mr. Pearson

One of the most interesting, and on the surface inexplicable features is tape recordings of alleged conversations linking the District Attorney of Portland, Ore., William Langley, to alleged Teamster representatives, plus testimony that Langley took contributions from Big Jim Elkins, convicted narcotics smuggler and user.

Langley is a Democrat. He comes from a family of Democrats who were Democrats when it wasn't too profitable to be a Democrat in Oregon. His father before him was district attorney. Both had excellent reputations, both were considered somewhat anti-labor. Labor, with one exception, never supported them.

I happen to have known the Langley family dating back about 30 years. The story of young Langley's having accepted money and having conspired with petty cardroom operators and Teamster errand boys sounded fishy to me. I went to him. Here is his side of the case, a story which I believe to be true.

Teamsters Switch

Young Langley's opponent for district attorney, John McCourt, was a liberal Republican who had been strong for labor, had always received labor support. Langley had not. But toward the end of his last election race in October 1954, the Teamsters phoned his father to say that they had discovered McCourt was backed by Big Jim Elkins, the leader of the gambling world, so they were coming out for Langley. They did.

However, the noise the Teamsters made for Langley in those last two weeks probably did not overcome their previous 25 years of opposition.

Langley says he accepted no money from the Teamsters, but they did spend some money on his behalf and handed out literature for him. What really won him the election was his promise to solve the murder of a teen-age baby sitter by a Chinese and his white wife. He solved it and secured a conviction by getting Tom Maloney, who has figured in the Senate hearings and taken the 5th Amendment, to go to Chinatown and dig up a key witness. Maloney was a sort of poolroom hanger-on and errand boy for Frank Brewster of the Teamsters. And Langley used him to get information on the underworld, including houses of prostitution. That was why he paid Maloney money and why it was easy to record telephone conversations with him. Maloney in turn was using a character named Leo Plotkin, who sold lingerie and cheap jewelry to the girls in Portland brothels, to get information for Langley.

Langley's Letters

Using this information, Langley wrote about a dozen letters to Police Chief James Purcell demanding that the houses be closed. Here is one of his letters:

"Dear Chief Purcell:

"I am advised that prostitution is being carried on in the city of Portland at the following locations:

"Atlas Rooms, N.W. 6th Avenue; Model Rooms, N.W. 6th Avenue; Seranac Rooms, N.W. 6th Avenue; Villa Rooms, 9 N.W. 3rd Avenue; Bellevue Hotel, 308 S.W. 12th Avenue; Roseway Rooms, 231 S.W. Washington St.; Clare Hotel, 314 W. Burnside St.; property at 170 S.W. Morrison St.; property at 3107 N.E. Rodney Ave.; property at 4929 S.E. Hawthorne Blvd.; property known as Zenith Rooms.

"Please cause these houses of prostitution to be permanently closed.

"I suggest their closure be effectively accomplished by placing a uniformed policeman in front of each location.

"Houses of prostitution are nests of law violators. My program of law enforcement will not permit such conditions to exist."

Langley tells me that Police Chief Purcell asked him not to write any more letters. He wanted the information by telephone. Langley refused. Purcell had been put in office party with the backing of Big Jim Elkins and his friend, City Councilman Stanley Earl.

Langley had gone to Gov. Paul Patterson of Oregon, a Republican, who originally advised him to send the information to the police in writing, not by phone. That way, the Republican Governor advised the Democratic District Attorney, the Police Chief had to act.

As a result of these letters, a lot of Big Jim's points were closed down, and he started a campaign to "get" Langley. He "bugged" his telephone.

One Sunday morning in July 1955, Big Jim Elkins came to Langley's home with a sheaf of letters from Police Chief Purcell and demanded that Langley stop writing them. Langley said he planned to keep on writing and told Elkins to leave.

Three months later he came back with a typewritten transcript of Langley's alleged conversations and said: "It will cost you $10,000 to get the tape recordings of those conversations."

Next day, Monday, Big Jim came when Langley was not at home. He entered the house despite Mrs. Langley's protests and started to play the tape recordings. "I'll leave these here for $10,000," he said. Mrs. Langley fled the house, took refuge in the home of a neighbor.

Later the recordings were printed in the Portland Oregonian and won a journalistic prize. They put Langley in the position of conspiring with Maloney and McLaughlin to conduct underworld operations. Langley claims they are doctored, and he has evidence to prove it. Nevertheless, he was indicted last summer for "conspiracy to commit malfeasance." He has not yet been tried and for that reason may plead the 5th Amendment if called as a Senate witness.

It is, of course, quite easy to doctor tape recordings. Any sound engineer at a radio station can show you how it can be done, which is why the Supreme Court will not permit them to be used in evidence.

This is a small part of the complicated Teamsters investigation testimony before the Senate that the public isn't getting.

Questions Raised on Redevelopment Plan

To the Editor:

Questions to answer:

Are we purchasing a new business site for Monessen at the expense of federal, state and local taxpayers?

With the new face, can the Authority permit any of the buildings to remain erect in the 27-acre site?

Who will have the first privilege to purchase land in the new site?

Will the old foundry be part of the new site?

Isn't all of our old residential and business areas blighted according to standards of the new site?

To your knowledge, has there ever been congested traffic in the proposed area?

What experience has the Authority with the proposed type of work?

Are we actually thinking of spending one million dollars or more only to build a pretty entrance to Monessen?

According to law, must the authority announce their meetings to the public and open them to the public?

Has the public been completely informed as to the objectives and plans of the authority?

In a three month period is the authority completely prepared for a redevelopment plan or are they going ahead with someone's wishes or brainstorm?

We have a new parking garage. How much is it being used?

These questions should be answered. Will those in favor of getting the answers please contact me immediately. My phone is MUrray 4-7587.

Murino DeAngelis
1801 Service Lane.

(Editor's Note—We are not sure whether Mr. DeAngelis is seeking information or conducting an agitation. Several of his questions have been answered in news stories concerning the proposed redevelopment. Others are premature inasmuch as the Authority's plans have progressed only to the stage where application has been made for federal and state grants. Once these are approved the planning can continue.

(Members of the Redevelopment Authority are all well known and responsible Monessen citizens. We see no reason to believe that they are dupes of or parties to some sinister plot. And the laws concerning urban redevelopment, both federal and state, contain many safeguards against improper use of the power given to authorities.

(Of course, it is the right of any citizen to disagree with particular actions of the Redevelopment Authority or with the entire concept. And The Peoples Forum is available for the expression of views about public affairs.

(The Redevelopment Authority has not as yet established stated meetings, but the secretary informs us that this will be done soon. Meanwhile the time and place of each meeting is being announced. The meetings of all authorities are open to the public under Pennsylvania law.)

Letters to the editor on subjects of general interest are always welcome. They should be brief and must be signed by the writer and carry his address. In circumstances where personalities might confuse the issue, the signature may be withheld from publication. But unsigned letters are ignored.

The Lighter Side—

How to Write Right In Words of One Part

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—There is this show on the air where they have guests and a head man and they tell you how to talk right and write right and use the right speech.

The name of it is "The Last Word" and it is a good show and I like it quite much. But just a week or so ago they came up with a thought that gives me some pain in the neck.

I do not know just which one of the guests it was but it was a big man in the field of good speech and how to write right and he came up with the thought that the base of good speech is the art of apt use of one wee word on the tail of the next wee word in stark and drear march from full stop to full stop sans a big word at all.

Quigg Takes Hint

The hint as I got it was that we should all speak and write and shove our thoughts at folks as if we want to whelm them with words of one . . . words of one . . . um, ah . . . words that have but one part to them—if you get what I mean. (That is, nice words—not the kind that come from the Picts and Scots and Jutes and which are not thought to be nice words at this late date.)

Well, I tell you now, as the judge in the trial of the twelve top Reds used to say, it is a hard row to hoe when you try to write a piece like this and use just words of one part. Just try it, if you do not dig me.

(And get this: the word "trial," the way I say it, "trile," is a word of one part. Ha ha, thought you caught me, did you not? Tee Hee.)

Now Take Bill

You take this bloke whose name was Bill who was a wright of plays back in olde you know what land in the good old days. He is known as the top man in the field of speech in the tongue in which we talk. From time to time in his plays he would come up with speech made up of wee words like "what a piece of work is man."

But these were few and far, uh . . . few and just plain far, that is what they were. Old Bill, he came up with some heap big words in all his works and you must give a nod that he had a sound that was right good.

I do not think I could keep this up for too long a time, but ere we say ta ta, I would like you to think what a spot the folks in the land trans the sea would have been in if they had had to talk in words of one part when they brought up the pro and con of what they thought of antidisestablishmentarianism.

At the White House—

Ike Burying Traditions, Rejects Dinner Dates

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

President Eisenhower is burying some ancient traditions this late winter and spring in by-passing dinners normally given in his honor by various organizations of Washington reporters and photographers.

He declined, for example, to attend the Gridiron Club dinner last Saturday night.

He also has informed the radio and television correspondents that he won't be able to attend their banquet March 23. He'll be in Bermuda then conferring with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Mr. Eisenhower is the first president in many years who did not join the National Press Club. He and Mrs. Eisenhower also dropped the custom started by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and his wife of including in the White House social schedule a reception for reporters, photographers and their wives.

The Gridiron Club, an organization of 50 Washington newspapermen, is 72 years old. Presidents have been attending the club's glittering dinners for years.

The Gridiron show is an acid whizzer. Members take great delight in writing and staging skits that have burned more than one leading Washington figure to an indignant crisp, presidents included. But the aim is adult entertainment, and most everybody goes home feeling that it was a pretty funny and interesting evening.

The President has a quite obvious reason for being unable to attend the radio and television dinner—he'll be in Bermuda on important state business. But why turn down the Gridiron Club?

Nothing has been said publicly, but the explanation given by the White House staff is the President's busy schedule. He does have a heavy schedule this season, with an unusually large number of foreign visitors, but there was no evidence of a strongly conflicting engagement last Saturday night.

The President also tries to avoid too many late evenings. He has been bothered for weeks by a nagging cough, a condition which certainly would not improve in a smoke-filled banquet hall. Also, most of the banquets are stag affairs, and Mr. Eisenhower is not too keen about going to parties at night without his wife.

Derry Coach Reveals Cage Strategy

Derry Twp. coach Kendall Grote, when asked what strategy he planned to employ against Charleroi tomorrow in the WPIAL Tournament, replied: "It's quite obvious. We'll have to play for the good shot because we'll be at a disadvantage against Charleroi because of its greater height. In other words, we won't be able to take chances from the field because the odds will be against us on the backboards." . . . Gene Danko, former all-state basketballer from McKeesport, missed most of Maryland University's games this season because of a fractured ankle. However he returned in time to pace the Terps to a 62-59 win over Georgetown in the season finale the other evening.

Hot Rod Hundley, West Virginia's All-American, has scored 2,118 points during his college career. He's averaging 24.3 points per game this season . . . Speaking of the Mountaineers, apparently their cage fortunes will drop little with Hundley's departure. The West Virginia freshmen team is undefeated with three giants averaging better than 16 points per game . . . As for undefeated teams, how about Wampum? The Indians have three unbeaten quints this seasons — varsity, junior varsity and junior high. In charge is Butler Hennon, father of Pitt's sophomore sensation Don Hennon.

Cullen Named to Recreation Board

School Director Nick Cullen has replaced John Lancas on the city's Recreation Board. Lancas is now president of the School Board. Other members of the recreation group are chairman Stephen Pfeister, Roy DeRocco, Alex Kachmarik and Bill Parkinson . . . A. Markley Barnes, veteran football coach at Jeannette High, has been named "Man of the Year" in his hometown. In 25 years of coaching, Barnes' teams have won 156 game while losing 64 and tying 12. His '56 eleven whipped Charleroi for the WPIAL title. Oddly enough, the Jays also had an unbeaten team in 1936, but the WPIAL crown that season went to Charleroi on the basis of Gardner Points.

A ten-pin bowling team from Belle Vernon has entered the annual Knights of Columbus Tournament at Brannans Bowl in McKees Rocks. Ken Stickel will captain the Belle Vernon men in their quest for part of the $19,000 in prize money . . . Brownsville High officials have contacted just about every school in western Pennsylvania in a vain effort to complete the 1957 football schedule. There are still three open dates on Sept. 13, Sept. 20 and Oct. 25 . . . Reportedly George Gorum has submitted his resignation as head basketball coach at Glassport High.

To Broadcast Charleroi-Derry Game

Tomorrow's Charleroi-Derry Twp. basketball game will be broadcast over WMCK in McKeesport direct from the Pitt Field House, site of the WPIAL Tournament . . . Bentleyville's Barry Trew recently fired the second perfect score in the history of the Pittsburgh and Suburban Rifle League. Trew also fired the first perfect score a year ago . . . Contributions to the Richard Kadis Fund have now reached almost $24,000. That figure, unhappily, will be entirely gobbled up by medical bills within the next few weeks . . . Incidentally, faculty basketball teams from Brownsville and Redstone played the other day to raise more than $200 for the Kadis Fund.

City League Tournament Is Delayed

Charleroi Cagers Are Ready To Debut In Tourney Tomorrow

Charleroi High's Section 5 basketball champions will begin their WPIAL tournament bid tomorrow at the Pitt Field House against the Section 10 kings from Derry Twp.

Coach Henry Pennline's brilliant Cougars are heavily favored to win.

As a matter of fact, the experts look upon the game as nothing more than a tuneup for the Charleroians. It will give them a chance to acquaint themselves with the Field House floor without risking elimination.

Derry is not exactly a poor team. The Trojans have won 11 straight games and their overall season record is a respectable 18-5.

Moreover Coach Kendall Grote has a superb shooting outfit, which averaged better than 40 per cent field-goaling during the win streak.

Great Club

However Charleroi has its best club in years. There are those who predict the Cougars will go all the way.

During the regular season, the Charleroians won 22 of 23 games losing only an overtime decision at Uniontown, another tourney entry.

The Charleroians will tower far above the Derry boys, giving them a tremendous advantage in the rebounding department.

Except for an extra hot shooting performance by Derry, the game may turn into a rout.

The WPIAL Tournament will resume tonight at the Field House when Uniontown, the Section 2 champion, meets Tarentum of Section 13. This is a first round encounter.

Heavy Favorites

Uniontown, boasting a 19-3 record, is a heavy favorite over the Redcats who had an 11-10 record for the year.

Tonight's winner will meet McKeesport, Section 6 titlist, at the Pitt Field House March 12 in a quarter-final game. Last year Tarentum was eliminated in the tournament by McKeesport.

Golf's 'Old-Timers' Still Tough to Beat

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Jaunty Jimmy Demaret is par-busting proof today that Father Time hasn't yet kayoed the golfing grandpappies.

The fairway followers who fill their wallets with a wedge are quick to tell you that such "ancients" as Ben Hogan and Sam Snead still are the ones to beat in the major tournaments looming just ahead.

Don't laugh.

Because the 45-year-old Demaret demonstrated conclusively that there's still plenty of life in the old guard as he won the Baton Rouge Open. Beating back the challenge of 26-year-old Peter Thomson he admitted gaily that he was "hitting the ball better than ever."

Ordinarily you might be able to pass this off as just one of those things. But you can't. Because this Demaret's second victory on the winter tournament trail against as fine a young crop of competitors as the pro tour ever has attracted. Just a few weeks ago, Rainbow Jim took the Thunderbird Invitation. The young guys did begin to crowd into the act. 25-year-old Bill Casper winning at Phoenix, 27-year-old Dow Finsterwald at Tucson, and 27-year-old Arnold Palmer at Houston. But in addition to Demaret's pair of victories the Caliente Open went to Ed Furgol, who is moving in on 40.

The sprouts must be uneasy as they contemplate the fact that Hogan and Snead haven't been making the winter tour. But they have been sharpening their games in preparation for the big ones ahead.

The first of these is the Masters, April 4-7, and after that the most coveted championships will be the U.S. Open, the PGA and the world at Chicago.

There will be a host of the old heroes in the Masters. Tommy Armour, Billy Burke, Ed Dudley, Ralph Guldahl, Lawson Little, Tony Manero, Byron Nelson, Johnny Revolta, Paul Runyan, Gene Sarazen, Denny Shute, and Craig Wood.

None of these probably has the ghost of a chance to win. But you can't say that about such still-willing warhorses as Demaret, the 45-year-old Snead and Hogan, who is 43 going on 44.

"If you have the desire and you get your game in shape, you always have a chance," explains Snead.

Demaret's game, as the youngsters will tell you, is red hot. With Hogan and Snead, it's merely a matter of practice. The old guard unquestionably is still in business.

Warriors, Celtics Dominate Pro Cage Statistics

NEW YORK (UP) —The Philadelphia Warriors and Boston Celtics are set to grab the lion's share of individual honors in the National Basketball Association with only one week left to play in the regular season.

Official weekly statistics showed today that Pitchin' Paul Arizin has taken over the individual scoring lead from injured Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks by a margin of 26 points. Since Pettit is playing only a few minutes per game with one arm in a cast, Arizin's second scoring crown now is a cinch.

That will give the Warriors two individual titles, for Neil Johnston apparently has the field goal shooting average wrapped up with a .455 mark compared with .441 for Jack Twyman of Rochester.

The Celtics also are assured of two titles—in assists with, as usual, Bob Cousy, and in free throw shooting, again as usual, with Bill Sharman. Cousy has 460 assists to 323 for Jack McMahon of St. Louis; Sharman has a .910 free throw average to 900 for Adolph Schayes of Syracuse.

The only other individual crown is in rebounding, and that's reserved for Maurice Stokes of Rochester. The former St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., star has 1,192 rebounds and already has set a new league season record. Pettit is his nearest rival with 981.

New Coach for Golf at State

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) —For the first time in 35 years, there won't be a Rutherford coaching golf at Penn State.

Boyle, a native of Aliquippa played on Penn State's postwar teams, including the all-winning Eastern championship team of 1948.

Monongahela Show Will Begin Thursday Instead of Tonight

(BULLETIN)

The second annual Monongahela Booster Club Tournament has been postponed until Thursday and Friday of this week.

Originally the tournament was scheduled to begin tonight. However school officials at Monongahela said today that a last-minute conflict in dates made the gym unavailable this evening.

Monessen's City League all-stars will meet a similar team from Charleroi tonight in opening action of the second annual Monongahela Booster Club tournament.

The long-time rivals will tip-off at 7.30 p. m. The nightcap attraction, scheduled to begin around 9, will pair teams from Donora and Monongahela.

Tonight's winners will meet on Thursday for the championship. The losers will square off in a consolation game.

All four tourney entries will be made up of the finest players in the respective City Leagues.

Last year, Monessen topped Charleroi in an opening test but lost to Donora in the title brawl.

Lutes to Coach

Once again Bucky Lutes, veteran Viaduct coach, will pilot the Monessen quint.

Lutes has selected three members from the championship Cro-Ams: Paul Kunsa, 6-2; Sam Dominico, 6-2; and Tony Crisi, 6-1. All are good scorers.

From his own Viaduct team, he has called upon Mike Young, 6-2, and Dick DiCenzio, 5-8.

The Fuocos have also contributed two members to the Monessen squad: John Trembush, 6-2; and Jim Bricker, 5-8.

Completing the rosters are Leroy Stover, 6-4, of Big Five; Gene Hall, 6-3, of Sugar Loaf; and Ed Sanc, 6-0, of the Ozarks.

County Floor Tourney Begins Wed. Afternoon

The 31st annual Westmoreland County Basketball Tournament will begin tomorrow at the swank Hempfield High gym.

Five games are scheduled on the opening day, including a 7 p. m. clash between Rostraver and Greensburg.

Bellmar will make its tourney debut on Thursday, meeting New Kensington at 7 p. m.

Monessen will not participate in the 1957 tournament. The Greyhounds forfeited their right to the floor show when they appeared in a holiday tourney at Ford City.

Two Class B games are scheduled tomorrow. South Huntingdon will meet Sewickley Twp., at 4, while Export will take on Laurel Valley at 5.

In Class A tussles, North Huntingdon will go against Ligonier at 6; Greensburg against Rostraver at 7; and Hempfield against Penn Joint at 8.

Yet to Win

Rostraver has yet to win a county tournament title. The Leps did advance to the finals of the Class A division back in 1944, but in 1957 bowed to Greensburg in the title game.

During the regular season, Coach George Everett's Rostraver boys won eleven games while losing seven.

Should the Leps get by Greensburg they will meet the Hempfield-Penn Joint winner at 8 p. m. next Friday.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Ernesto Figueroa of Mexico City has been forced to pull out of his March 12 fight with Ike Chestnut of New York because of an injury suffered in training.

Hartack After Jockey Crown

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UP)—Willie Hartack, who rode 62 winners during the 40-day Hialeah Park meeting, drew two more "hot" horses for today's opening program at Gulfstream Park.

The 1955-56 national jockey champion was scheduled to ride Calumet Farm's Fabius in the $10,000 added Armed Handicap, a six-furlong spin named in honor of a former Calumet stakes winner.

In a six furlong race preceding the feature, Hartack will be aboard Barbizon, another member of the successful Calumet stable who will be making his 1957 debut. Barbizon was the nation's outstanding juvenile last year when he won five of six starts, including the Garden State Stakes.

Hartack completed his successful Hialeah stand Monday when he piloted Mrs. Eugenia Bankhead's Jabneh to victory in the $106,350 Hialeah Turf Handicap.

Sportsmen Fete On Tap Tonight

Another Film by Hal Harrison To Feature 17th Annual Banquet

Hal Harrison, noted outdoors writer, will turn the pages of history back over 150 years tonight when he addresses the 17th annual Monessen Sportsmen's Association banquet at the First Methodist Church.

Harrison will narrate his latest colored motion picture: "Beyond the Shining Mountains."

The film captures much of the beauty and grandeur as well as many of the hardships encountered by the Lewis and Clark expedition a century and a half ago.

Harrison, who conducts an outdoors column in the Pittsburgh Post Gazette, spent almost two years preparing the movie. He travelled 30,000 miles through 12 western states to complete an historically accurate account of the Lewis and Clark trail.

Record Wild Life

Practically all of the wild life recorded in the journals of those two explorers has been photographed.

Assisting in the preparation of the film was the Historical Society of Montana. Landmarks from St. Louis, Mo., to Astoria, Ore., are presented with authority.

Harrison is no newcomer to the Sportsmen's banquet. He proved so entertaining last season, that he was brought back by popular demand.

Other speakers this evening will include George Norris and Robert Parlaman, supervisors of the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Carl Garrick, president of the Sportsmen's Association, will offer the welcome while Allen Kline, sports editor of the Daily Independent, will act as toastmaster.

Ministers Present

Invocation will be offered by Rev. Lloyd S. Erb, pastor of the First Baptist Church, while Rev. Martin J. O'Toole, administrator of St. Leonard's Church, will pronounce the benediction.

Music will be supplied by the Three Jack's Trio; and the Four Specs, a singing quartet from the Monessen Lions Club.

According to a spokesman for the MSA, the banquet is a complete sell-out as usual. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m.

National Wildlife Week was started in 1938 by proclamation of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It has since been sponsored annually by the National Wildlife Federation and state affiliates, including the Fayette County Fish and Game Protective Association.

Walt Disney, maker of the famous "True Life Adventure" movies, is national honorary chairman for Wildlife Week. Seth Myers, of Sharon is State chairman and Walter Murphy has been appointed to head a committee directing the local activities.

Other committee members are: Harry B. Riffle, Assistant Fayette County Superintendent of Schools; Glenn W. Irvin, Assistant Fayette County Superintendent of Schools; Paul A. Pitt Invited to NCAA; Dukes Improve Tournament Chances

By UNITED PRESS

Pittsburgh, which ended its best basketball season in 15 years last week, was selected Monday as an at-large team for the NCAA tournament eliminations.

Duquesne, meanwhile, improved its chances for a bid to the National Invitational Tournament by defeating Temple, 68-54, at Pittsburgh Monday night. The game was the final for the Dukes and gave them a 16-7 record.

Coach Bob Timmons' Pitt Panthers will play Morehead (Ky) State in the first round of the NCAA Midwest regionals at Columbus, Ohio, March 12.

Pitt's 80-65 triumph over Penn State Saturday night gave it a 15-9 record, the best campaign since 1943 when it compiled a 10-5 record. Led by Don Hennon, its Small - America guard, Pitt won five of its last six starts this season to earn a tournament berth.

Temple Still Hopeful

Duquesne's convincing victory over Temple strengthened its chance for an NIT bid, but did not leave Temple out of the picture.

Josh Cody, athletic director at Temple, threw some light on the delay in filling the field for the post-season tourney in Madison Square Garden.

"We could have had a berth two weeks ago if we were free to go," he explained. "We are a member of the Middle Atlantic Conference and are committed to represent the conference in the NCAA if we are selected. No choice has been made as yet. If some other school in the conference gets the NCAA vote, we would be free to go to the NIT."

Cody said the NIT "wants Guy Rodgers as a drawing card." Rodgers was the game's high scorer Monday night with 23 points.

Ricketts Leads Way

Duquesne held a 34-30 halftime lead over the Owls and rallied strongly in the second half to pull away. Dave Ricketts led the Dukes with 21 points. Substitute guard Fritz Binder had 20.

Geneva College meets Indiana Teachers tonight on the neutral Westminster College court at New Wilmington in the District 30 (Pennsylvania) NAIA eliminations. Geneva has won the eliminations the past four years.

The winner goes against Millersville Teachers in the state final. The state champion will compete in the national NAIA tournament at Kansas City March 11-16.

Turner Scores Impressive Win

NEW YORK (UP)—An improved Gil Turner had offers from five promoters today because of his impressive fourth-round knockout over welterweight Rudy Gwin in their TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena.

When Referee Petey Della counted out Gwin of Cleveland at 2:19 of the fourth before 1,384 fans Monday night, it was Philadelphia Gil's second straight knockout since he returned from the middleweight division to the welterweight class this year.

Manager Georgie Katz said, "Because Gil looked so sharp, I got offers today from promoters at Milwaukee, St. Louis, Philadelphia, the International Boxing Club and St. Nick's."

Turner, the ex - welterweight challenger who lost four of his five bouts last year as a middleweight, weighed only 150¾ pounds Monday night—just 3¾ over the wleter (147-pound) limit. Gwin scaled 146¼.

Gil, favored at 9-5 because of his greater experience, slowed up Gwin with a body attack in the second and third rounds; then staggered him twice with left hooks and flattened him with a looping right to the jaw in the fourth.

Moore Told to Sign for Bout

DETROIT, (UP)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore has until March 18 to sign for a June title fight against the winner of the Chuck Speiser - Tony Anthony bout.

Floyd Stevens, President of the National Boxing Association, laid down the law Monday and ordered Moore "to get something in writing without any further talks or postponements."

Moore originally was scheduled to meet Speiser here in April. But the 175-pound titleholder said he needed more time to train and the Speiser-Anthony bout was arranged for April 5 with the winner to meet Moore for the crown.

Don Newcombe Still Complains Of Sore Elbow

By UNITED PRESS

The Brooklyn Dodgers are right back today where they were at the close of the World Series—wondering, "What's with Don Newcombe?"

The big 27-game winner and NL "most valuable player" walked off the mound during Monday's batting practice at Vero Beach, Fla., and complained of the same elbow soreness which he said bothered him in the series. Newcombe said the pain was not as serious as last autumn and he did not seem especially concerned over the ailment.

Dr. Harold Wendler, the club trainer also said he believed the injury was not serious although he conceded, "He'll have to take rest and heat treatment and there's really no way of telling how long he'll be sidelined."

Sore arm miseries also hit shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs who had similar trouble late last season. Banks' trouble was diagnosed as a slight muscle irritation, he was given a shot of cortisone and ordered to do no throwing for a few days.

Manager Fred Hutchinson, meanwhile, listed the St. Louis Cardinals' lineup for their first exhibition game of the spring next Saturday and manager Jack Tighe conceded the Detroit Tigers are attempting to swing a deal for a fourth starting pitcher.

The Cardinals will have Don Blasingame leading off followed by Alvin Dark, Stan Musial, Del Ennis, Ken Boyer, Wally Moon, Chuck Harmon and Hal Smith. Hutchinson's pitchers for the opener with the New York Yankees will be Herman Wehmeier, R. G. Smith and Lindy McDaniel.

Tola Sets Mark In Fayette City Grade League

Chuckie Tola, a fifth grade student at Fayette City, set the individual scoring record in the Winter Recreation basketball program at the FC Community Center, according to statistics released today by Director Bap Manzini.

Tola tallied 36 points in a single game to steal most of the individual glory.

According to Manzini, the Warriors and Wildcats are tied for first place in the Fourth-Fifth Grade League with 8-2 record. The Generals are third with a 4-6 chart while the Cadets are last with 0-10.

In the sixth-seventh grade, the Pirates are at the head of the class with a 7-3 record. Then follow the Globe Trotters, 6-4; Knights, 5-5; and Hurricanes, 2-8.

All games are staged in the Fayette City Community Center. On Thursdays and Fridays, a similar floor program is held for high school and junior high school boys from six to 10 p. m.

Lopez Has Hopes For His Chisox

By LEO H. PETERSEN

TAMPA, Fla., (UP) — Al Lopez figured today he will have a better shot at the American League pennant with the White Sox than he did with the Indians because "we have a better defense and speed."

"This club isn't going to let in as many runs as Cleveland," Lopez predicted after putting his new club through its spring training paces. "Its defense is much better than I had in Cleveland and there is no comparison either when it comes to speed."

As for pitching, Lopez admitted the Indians might have "a little edge" but added "it doesn't figure to be much when you can start out a series by shooting Billy Pierce, Jack Harshman and Dick Donovan at your opponents."

Claims Slight Bat Edge

The good-natured, smiling Lopez said he thought that his new and old clubs "are just about equal when it comes to hitting, with perhaps the White Sox having a shade the better of it."

He expressed confidence that the White Sox "will be in the running all the way."

"All we need to do is to add a little more strength and I am firmly convinced we can go all the way," Lopez said, disclosing that the first thing he is looking for is a left-handed hitting catcher.

"I need a left-handed hitting catcher behind Sherman Lollar who also could be available for pinch hitting duty," Lopez declared, adding that he didn't know where he might come up with such a player. His own catching candidates behind Lollar all are right-handed hitters.

Likes Stengel's Estimate

Told that Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees had picked the White Sox as one of the teams to beat "because they have a manager who is too good to finish second all the time," Lopez grinned and replied:

"I hope old Case is right."

The former star catcher finished second with the Indians five times, each time behind the Yankees.

He conceded that beating the Yankees "isn't going to be easy."

"After all, they have more talent and a better bench than any other club in the league," reasoned Lopez. "But I beat 'em back in 1954 and they can be beaten again."

Clemente Claims His Back's Sore

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UP)—Outfielder Roberto Clemente is complaining again about a bad back, but the Pittsburgh Pirates aren't worried much about it.

Last season, Clemente had the same complaint and the word around the clubhouse was that it generally meant the Puerto Rican would have a good day at the plate.

"He told me down in Puerto Rico during the winter that his back was bothering him," General Manager Joe Brown said. "But he was hitting something like .433 at the time."

Brown said X-rays would be taken and that "perhaps if nothing is revealed on the pictures, Roberto will feel better."

A heavy rainstorm stopped the Pirates' first intra - squad game Monday in the first inning. Bob Friend pitched one inning and reported his arm felt very good. There had been some fear Friend might have a tired arm this year because of the large number of innings he worked in 1956.

Marshall Denies Big Profits for Pro Football

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Owner George Preston Marshall of the Washington Redskins denied today that professional football teams are "making an enormous amount of money."

Marshall's unusually calm but vigorous defense of pro football was contained in a letter to Rep. William E. Miller (R-NY), who has demanded an investigation of pro football.

Marshall said Miller's recent statement that National Football League clubs are making large profits "simply isn't true." The Redskin owner said NFL gross receipts in 1956, including television fees, were less than $9 million—even though it was the biggest year in league history.

"For 12 franchises," Marshall added, "that is not as much gross business as is done by small department stores in any one of the many cities in the United States. The net profits would be less than $500,000 for the 12 clubs."

Marshall rejected Miller's proposal that the NFL should add new teams. He said this would "increase the economic hazards of which we have many and would also bring about a more competitive situation with college football."

The Washington owner said that of the 360 players selected in the NFL draft, only half that number report for trials and not more than 60 make the grade.

Indians Sweep In Fabric League

Indians blanked the Senators in Fabric Bowling League action last night.

In other matches, the Dodgers won a pair from the Pirates and the Giants took two from the Yankees.

Top scorers were Cy Troychak, 189-469; Sam Marinos, 139-375; Bob Hawk, 198-469; John Polinchak, 175-468; John Sobran, 177-434; and Lou Relosky, 168-461.

Standings show Yankees, 25-8; Dodgers, 23-10; Pirates, 20-13; Indians, 12-21; Giants, 11-22; Senators, 8-25.

$51,000 Pool For NBA Cagers

NEW YROK (UP) — National Basketball Association players will fight for shares in a $51,000 pool in their league playoffs starting March 16, league President Maurice Podoloff announced today.

The Boston Celtics already have earned $4,000 from the jackpot by winning the Eastern Division championship, and they probably will receive another $1,000 for finishing the regular season with the best winning percentage in either division.

Sullivan Wins In English Bout

LENIESTER, Eng. (UP)—Johnny Sullivan, former British middleweight champion who campaigned in the United States last year, punched his way to a 10-round decision over Arthur Howard Monday night. Sullivan was a substitute for ailing Randy Turpin.

Lattner Ponders Knee Operation

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Johnny Lattner, Pittsburgh Steelers' halfback, may decide today whether to gamble on another knee operation in an effort to save his professional football career.

Lattner was told Monday by Dr. Phil Faix, Steelers' team physician, that the knee is "very unstable" and he cannot play football with it. However, Faix said, "if a second operation is successful, he probably could resume his career."

"I certainly would like to play again," Lattner said Monday night. "I am going to talk to my mother and seek advice from some close friends before making a final decision."

Lattner, in the Air Force the past two years, injured the knee in a service game in 1955. He underwent surgery.

The former Notre Dame All-American and Heisman Trophy winner was the Steelers' first draft in 1954.

To Screen College Games Again

NEW YORK (UP) —The National Broadcasting Co. has been awarded the rights to carry the NCAA college football "game of the week" series again this year, it was announced today.

The 1957 TV plan approved by the NCAA is basically the same as that in effect the last two years. It provides for nationwide telecasts of single games on eight Saturdays plus three games on Thanksgiving Day on a split network basis.

Regional games will be telecast on four other Saturdays during the 1957 season. Rights for these games will be handled by the individual colleges and conferences subejct to NCAA approval.

NBC, which has carried the NCAA approved games during six of the last seven seasons, said the 1957 schedule of TV games will be announced soon.

Cutler Romps In Electric Loop

Cutler Hammer blanked Reliance and Clark won a pair of games from Pitt Carbon in Finishing Side Electric League bowling last night.

Best scorers were Nick Tacovino, 187-444; Joe Salvino, 183-421; Ray Calderoni, 153-436; Bub Bernardo, 187-490; Joe Righetti, 142-410; and George Senitta, 146-410.

Standings show Cutler Hammer, 5-1; Clark, 3-3; Reliance, 2-4; and Pitt Carbon, 2-4.

Railroads Boost Diesel Fleet Seven Times

ST. LOUIS (UP)—The nation's Class 1 railroads have increased their diesel locomotive fleet more than seven times in the past 10 years, a rail official said today.

Richard G. May, of Washington, vice president of the Operations and Maintenance Department of the Association of American Railroads, said that at the end of 1956 the number of diesel units owned by the railroads totaled 26,215 as compared with 3,654 steam locomotives.

May, who addressed a convention meeting of the American Railway Engineering Association, said the figures were just the reverse in 1947 when the roads owned 35,108 steam locomotives and 5,772 diesel units.

At the present time, May said, total Class 1 railroads in investment in road and equipment alone amounts to near $33 billion, $12 billion of which has been spent since the end of World War II.

Former AMA Head Defends Doctors in Misunderstandings

(This is the first of three dispatches by last year's president of the American Medical Association examining misunderstandings between the public and the medical profession.)

By DR. ELMER HESS
Written For United Press

What do people think about doctors? Does the public respect the medical profession — have faith in physicians? Or is there a growing animosity toward medical men?

From the things you sometimes read or the comments you hear you might get the idea people are pretty disgruntled about the men who serve their medical needs. How many times have you encountered criticisms like these?

"Doctors are impersonal—they are curt to people who aren't seriously ill and belittle their problems . . ."

"Doctors charge too much . . ."

"Doctors add to a patient's bill when they find out he carries insurance. . ."

Well, I can tell you that during my term of office as president of the American Medical Association I got some first-hand information on this subject. In my extensive travels I questioned all kinds of Americans to find out their feelings toward doctors. And I studied every letter of complaint I received.

He was Amazed

It seems to me the number of complaints the president of the world's largest medical organization receives ought to be a pretty good means of measuring the extent of dissatisfaction around the country. I was actually amazed how few such letters I received. In a country with a population of over 160 million people I received less than 1,000 letters of complaint and I personally answered each one.

Within the last few years the medical profession has set up mechanisms to handle real or imagined grievances. We call them grievance or mediation committees and a majority of state and county medical societies have them today. These are committees made up of doctors to whom a person can take a complaint about a physician or some aspect of medical service. You get a fair hearing before such a committee. And an honest attempt is made to settle problems fairly.

One thing doctors have learned in their recent efforts to reduce complaints is that simple misunderstanding is usually the major cause. Often, when both sides to the controversy come to understand the whole situation, complaints vanish in thin air.

Polices Own Ranks

The medical professional traditionally has kept tabs on its own members—policed its own ranks, so to speak, in an effort to make sure doctors conform to the highest ethical concepts of the practice of medicine. And just to show you that doctors don't whitewash a colleague when they find he has violated an ethical principle or has not acted in accordance with good standards of medicine, let me tell you a true story.

An Oakland, California woman had surgery and when she received her bill, felt her surgeon had overcharged her. Even though she was wealthy, the woman refused to pay this bill. She took her complaint to the Alameda County Medical Society. Their grievance committee heard her story.

"Of course, I could pay the fee charged," she said, "but it is many times what is charged for a similar operation in this area."

The committee investigated and learned that her physician had failed to tell her prior to the operation what the charge would be. (The AMA, to prevent such misunderstandings, encourages all physicians to discuss fees in advance with patients and to itemize bills for clarity. When the committee suggested to the physician that he reduce his bill to make it closer to the going rate for such surgery, he refused. Then the grievance committee took its stand. It told him that since he had not agreed upon a fee prior to the operation, he should accept the usual fee. If he did not do so, the committee said, it would defend the patient's position if the case went to court. Needless to say, the physician accepted an "average" fee.

No Two Cases Alike

However, there's one thing patients sometimes don't realize. No two cases are exactly alike. There may be good reasons why Mrs. Jones may pay less for a medical service than someone in your family does for a similar procedure. I once treated two men who were neighbors. Both had similar symptoms and both had to have surgery. In one case the man had a condition easily corrected. The other unfortunately had a malignancy so his operative result wasn't good.

The man with the malignancy checked with his neighbor, found there was a difference in the operative results, and refused to pay his bill. Did we attempt to collect? Of course not. This story merely illustrates the many variations in what often appear to be identical cases. That's why it is difficult to establish definite average fees for specific conditions.

The matter of fees does sometimes result in justified complaints. There are occasional instances of overcharging. A few doctors may hike a bill when patients have insurance. But I'd be willing to bet that when you hear a complaint about overcharging or fee-hiking, it is generally because of a misunderstanding of the situation rather than because the physician is guilty. The medical profession itself is working hard to weed out any cases of abuse of this type.

Doctors Are Human

As for the complaint that doctors are curt and impersonal, to say that doctors are tremendously busy doesn't really justify such attitudes. Our profession is continually impressing upon its members the importance of treating each patient as a special individual, not just as a clinical case. Our efforts to build better doctor-patient relationships help re-instill the qualities of kindliness and patience that made the horse - and-buggy doctor such a revered man. We're seeking to train tomorrow's doctors this philosophy.

Even so, remember that doctors are human, too they get tired, they have personal problems, they don't always reflect sunshine and light. But they try. . . .

Jazz Combo Is Show Stealer On Gold Coast

ACCRA, Gold Coast (UP) — The Wilbur de Paris jazz combo which plays American jazz New Orleans style stole the show from visiting dignitaries Monday night in a noisy prelude to Ghana's independence day celebrations.

The audience, dressed in everything from western-style business suits to brilliant native robes and headdresses, exploded into a riot of color and action when de Paris broke into his first number — "Muskrat Ramble."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon skipped part of today's independence celebrations for a trip into the African bush country for a first-hand look at native life and an on-the-spot survey of problems facing this land.

Monday Nixon, apparently recovered from a mild attack of flu, conferred with Premier Kwame Nkrumah, and was told the new nation would be "nationalistic," but "we can never be neutral."
